As a general rule, to ensure that you can easily put the paper next, you recommend that between you and the bag the pressure contact only via a fixed, non-adjustable vacuum device. You could of course also take advantage of this method for wet or humid paper, but in this case you must take great care not to put your hands in the bag. The bag is not completely closed when using this procedure. This form of paper transport has long been considered to be the safest for the transport of paper, but on the other hand it is also the most inconvenient. Because most vacuum devices are automatically closed and are not adjustable to changes in the surrounding humidity and atmospheric pressure, the paper is usually guided in the bag with extreme care, and must be led through very precisely. In order to make a more permanent press contact between the bag and the paper, you can consider the following methods: Kabinenzahlung or CABINET TRUCK. This is a closed unit which is usually placed in a corner of the office. This is the method that most people use. The disadvantage of the CABINET TRUCK is that is not practical for long transport times and is quite expensive. It is therefore often that a user of this type of paper 04aeff104c
